

Texas Ethics Commission – Public Access CSV Data – Flat Format

The CSV file contains comma-delimited records – one line per record. Each record consists of fields separated by commas. The following characters constitute the permitted list. The space character and comma are not in this list.

! @ # $ % * - _ + : ; . / 0-9 A-Z a-z

If a raw data field contains any character other than these permitted characters, then the field is surrounded by double-quotes in the CSV. Space is not in the above list – meaning that data containing spaces will be double-quoted. Raw field data containing double-quotes will have doubled double-quotes in the CSV encoding. In both raw data and CSV encoding, new lines are represented with the escape notation \n.

Raw Data	CSV Encoded Data	Explanation
123.45	123.45	All numeric data characters are in the permitted list, so double-quoting is not needed for numeric data.
xyz@zzz.com	xyz@zzz.com	All characters are in the permitted list, so double-quoting is not needed.
Jones, Bobby	"Jones, Bobby"	Encoded data is double-quoted, because comma and space are not in the permitted list.
The "XYZ" Corp	"The ""XYZ"" Corp"	Data contains characters not in the list, so it is double-quoted. In addition, internal double-quotes are doubled.
Line1\nLine2	"Line1\nLine2"	In the raw data, new lines are represented as \n. The CSV encoding, therefore, is double-quoted.

Table 1. Examples Of CSV Encoding.
